

THE GLENFIDDICH STORY

Great single malt is the product of its ingredients, time and the craftsmen's skills. Independently owned by the founding family since 1887, the Glenfiddich has stayed true to William Grant's vision to craft the finest malt in Speyside, by investing in all of these "without compromise".

But skills can't be bought. Twenty seven of the Distillery's craftsmen have over 30 years experience in whisky making. Nine craftsmen have honed their skills for over 40 years. One has been perfecting his trade for more than 50 years.

Glenfiddich 18 Year Old has been created by these artisans to embody the perfection of single malt in both quality and luxury. Twice awarded 'Best in Class' at the IWSC, it seems the world's top critics agree

NOSE: Elegant with scents of apple and wood. It is robust and full bodied, yet remarkably mellow.

TASTE: Slightly sweet palate, perfectly balanced by subtle oak and a delicate maltiness. The finish is incredibly smooth and lengthy, with a dryness at the end.
